SUBJECT TWO

Read the following text carefully and do the activities: (14pts)

Ambition is the strong desire we feel to reach some goal in our life. It is one of the main forces which motivates our actions and sustains the hard efforts we make during long years. When it takes hold of our minds we go to extremes to satisfy it and give a material existence to any of the relations we want to accomplish in the future.

When we are animated with the ambition to obtain something we get filled with an intense determination to reach the end we have in view. Neither dangers nor obstacles are strong enough to deviate us from target. We do not recoil in front of sacrifices and we do not hesitate to throw ourselves in the harshest battles if we think that the price to win is worth the risk. We completely forget about the possibility of defeat and evacuate from our brains all factors that may prevent us from turning our dreams into reality.

Ambition helps us to release great energy and inner confidence in our hearts. It turns us into powerful and optimistic individuals. When we shelter it we get protected from laziness and other weakening realities. We get even ready to mix up with people whose ideas we do not share and evolve in contexts which clash with our personality. It is also a condition that allows us to keep in touch with our environment and get a useful learning from it. The changes this last one undergone and the new tends it takes do not frighten us but get gradually integrated into our behavior so that we acquire a better capacity for adaptation.

Another scale the fact of being ambitious can have positive results on people around us. For example the purpose we set our deeds may benefit others whether they are relatives, friends or the members of our community. In this case we not only win their respect and admiration but we also build more willpower and get more convincer about the soundness of our attitude. Everything we do then gets justified and all the worries that affect us seem insignificant and easier to bear.
